Post-Surgical Sports Bras

Personal Symmetrics offers post-surgical sports bras, which are designed to compress the wound after surgery and provide support to keep muscles and tissue in place until they heal. There are different types of sports bras available, including high-impact, low-impact, compression, encapsulation, and racerback. At Personal Symmetrics, we consider size, activity level, the location of the incisions, as well as individual comfort needs in order to ensure that we achieve the right fit. Wearing the proper sports bra will take strain off of the chest, making exercise more comfortable.

Custom nipple(s)

Personal Symmetrics offers custom prosthetic options for women who have undergone reconstructive breast surgery and are looking to add fullness and achieve a smooth transition. One convenient option is a detachable custom nipple. Another option is a custom nipple that is adhered directly to the skin of the reconstructed breast with a medical grade adhesive. Alternatively, a custom nipple can be worn with an apex silicone shaper, which overlays the front or apex of the breast. It increases prominence at the apex, to fill out a bra where there is gaping. Confidence is a top priority when it comes to our custom prosthetic options as we can mirror the surviving nipple and areola as well as the apex of the breast in terms of shape, size, and color.
